IS the store that always tries to give you just the things you call for and does not try to substitute something else instead.

IF you ask for a specific article and your druggist tries to persuade you that they have something else just as good, thus substituting before your very eyes, what would you think that druggist would do with your prescription when he is behind the prescription case and you can't see him?

We always try to supply just the things called for and if we do not have it we will get it. We regard substitution as stealing. What do you think?

L. ADAMS, of OREGON CITY, leading merchant, says: "Since Oregon City went dry, business has much improved. Collections are easier. I have fewer bad bills. Abolition of the saloon has turned a vast sum daily to the channels of trade. Checks that used to be cashed in saloons are now cashed in stores."
